I. Travel to and from the United States (check all boxes that apply):

- a. If a U.S. flag carrier offers nonstop or direct service (no aircraft change) from traveler origin to traveler destination, traveler must use a U.S. flag carrier service unless such use would:
- Extend travel time, including delays at origin, by 24 hours or more (requires documentation)
- b. If a U.S. flag carrier does not offer nonstop or direct service (no aircraft change) from traveler origin to traveler destination, traveler must use a U.S. flag air carrier service on every portion of the route that it provides service, unless such would:
- Increase the number of aircraft changes outside of the U.S. by 2 or more; or (requires documentation)
 - Extend travel time by 6 hours or more; or (requires documentation)
 - Require a connecting time of 4 hours or more at an overseas interchange point (requires documentation)

II. Travel between two points outside of the United States (check all boxes that apply):

- Traveler must always use a U.S. flag carrier for such travel, if available, unless when compared to using a foreign air carrier, such use would:

 - Extend travel time by 6 hours or more; or (requires documentation)
 - Require a connecting time of 4 hours or more at an overseas interchange point (requires documentation)

IV. Travel meets Fly America exception criteria (check all boxes that apply):

- Use of foreign air carrier is required to avoid unreasonable risk to traveler's safety (see 41 CFR 301-10.138(b)(2) for required supporting evidence)

- For short distance travel, U.S. flag carrier service is considered unavailable when the elapsed travel time on a scheduled flight from origin to destination by a foreign air carrier is 3 hours or less and the use of a U.S. flag air carrier doubles time enroute. (requires documentation)

V. Air travel meeting an Open Skies exception:

- Air travel between the U.S. and the European Union (EU) and not supported by a Department of Defense (DOD) funded award.
- Air travel between the U.S. and either Australia, Switzerland, or Japan, and:
